A BIG FIRE.

The Don Canning Works at Burlington is Wiped Out.

A BAD FIRE OVER THE RIVER

Last Night - The Loss will Foot Up to $12,000, with $6,400 Insurance-The Cause of the Fire is Unknown, but is Not Supposed to Have Been of Incendtary Origin-There was No Fire Department, and Nothing Effective Could be Done.

The village of Burlington, above Martin's Ferry, was visited by a big fire last night. The Don canning works and stable, and two dwelling houses were The loss is fully $12,000, insurance $6,200.

The fire originated on the north side of the first floor of the canning works at about 8:30. The elarm was given by some boys who were passing and Mr. J. W. Collins, the secretary, and Mr. Mnywood Forsyth went up to the works,

J. W. Coilins, the secretary, and Mr. Maywood Forsyth went up to the works, but the flames had spread very rapidly and the entire bundling was soon enveloped in flames. The attention of those on the ground was then given to the adjoining property and the big works was soon in ruins. The horses and wagon were saved and the stable, which adjoined the worrks, was burned. The flames spread to the two-story frame house of Mrs. Mary Jump, on the north and the one-story frame of T. J. Smith, on the south and both of these were entirely destroyed.

The cause of the fire is not known to a certainty. It is supposed to have originated near the capping machine and hot pots which were located on the north side of the building; there had been fire here during the day.
The Don canning works was built in 1891 at a cost of something over $5,000. It was a one and one-half story frame structure and a good building. Considerable improved machinery was put in this and last season. The stock and materials were worth about $5,000. On the building and contents there was only $4,900 insurance, divided in three policies and high in the William Lupton agency, of Martin's Ferrryr. The Jump dwelling was occupied by Scott Huil and was valued at $1,200. It was lasured for $700, and the Smith house, occupied by Charles Richards, valued at $1,100, was insured for $600, both in the Lupton agency. The adjoining houses were considerably scorched. Nearly all of the goods in the Jump and Smith houses were saved. The contents in other houses were moved out, because it looked like most of the village might go up in senoke.

The only fire protection in the village was a hand hose at the Smith & Son's mill, near by, and the bucket brigade, and those saved the adjoining property. Several clitzens were burned and somewhat bruised in their efforts to extinguish the flames and save other property.
